Bohemia and Moravia (Protectorate)

Formed by the Germans in 1939 from two provinces
of the dismembered Czechoslovak Republic.
In 1945 the protectorate ceased to exist, and the two provinces, Bohemia and Moravia, became, together with southern Silesia, one of the two constituent states of the Czechoslovak Republic, the other being Slovakia.

- Bombay (Presidency)
- Established as a Presidency in the 19th century.
Became an autonomous Province in 1937, after Aden and Sind split off. In 1948-49 it was enlarged by the merger of several former princely states. Bombay became a state of the Republic of India in 1950.
On May 1, 1960 it was divided in two parts; the northern and western part became the state of Gujarat
and the remaining area became the state of Maharashtra.
The publications of these countries are entered under Bombay (Presidency) before May 1960, and under Maharashtra or Gujarat beginning May 1, 1960.
